Wright to Place Latest Trophies in Study-Rebuked by African Editor.

Satisfied in the thought that he es achieved his life's ambition Denver M. Wright, St. Louis leath unt lions no more.

The stuffed carcasses of two full-grown animals that he helped shoot Saturday morning on a Mississip-pi Island 200 miles south of St. Island 200 miles south of St. ouis—a little bit of Africa on the psom of Ol' Man River—will be counted soon in his study at his ome at 1618 Annales avenue, Brentwood.

They will be placed hard by the two circus lionesses which Huntsman Wright took last October to an island near Commerce, Mo., only to be cheated of his kill by interlopers who crept up on the animals and shot them while Wright and his party were at a chicken dinner. While the first hunt brought on Wright criticism from as far off as Kenya Colony, in darkest Africa, Wright feels that he made a more reditable showing this time.

Thinks He Is Here Now.

"I think this lion hunt, the last I will ever go on, was a success," Wright told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Although I may have figured as a villain in the first one, I am pretty sure I have emerged as the hero this time."

All the details of the hunt were caught by movie photographers hired by Wright, although the beasts were killed when the light was not favorable for good pictures. The cameras, he said, caught all the action in the hunt, which never went much beyond 200 feet of Wright's camp, since the animals refused to go away and hide, and had to be shot after all efforts to make them run into the underbrush had proved una-

A St. Louis firm, to which Wright said he paid $1500, is de-veloping the film today. Its title is "The Lure of the Beast." Wright hopes it can be sold to a national distributor and has said he intends to devote the profits to charity.

Criticism From Africa

The hire of the cameramen was the largest item in the expense of the hunt, which altogether ran well over $2000. The lions them-selves cost $250 in a purchase or a bearish iion market. Wright also paid the expense of preparing the camp on the island, and of maintaining more than 20 hunters and camp followers there from Tuesday to Saturday of last week. Wright's first hunt was the subject of criticism in a lead editorial in the East African Weekly Times, published at Nairobi in Kenya Colony. Wright had sent newspaper clippings about the hunt to the editor of the paper, and the editor in return utilized two columns in denouncing the abortive hunt.

ouncing the abortive hunt. "No, Mr. Denver M. Wright," he "No, Mr. Denver M. Wright," he said in a closing paragraph, "that isn't sport. If you want to hunt, leave the spiritless circus animals alone, and come out to Kenya where the beasts are accustomed to fending for themselves, where they look upon man as their natural enemy, and where they will give you a jolly good scrap for your sport—and theirs."

Letter From the Editor.

The editor, A. A. Menkin, also ent Wright a letter in which he

"I thoroughly disapprove of the so-called 'hunt' you put on, with tame young lion cubs that have been reared to regard the human kind ast heir friends. It is so vastly different from the real thing that to see who lives in a country. that to one who lives in a country where real lion hunting is carried on, at some danger to the hunters, giving them true sport, your stag-ing of a cub hunt seems cruel and abhorrent."

In his account of the hunt Menkin referred to the fact that Wright had had the lionesses stuffed and placed in his study.

"One can imagine his vision of the years ahead," the editor wrote, "when he could relate to his grand-children the ferocity with which these harmless circus animals atthese harmless circus animals at-tacked him in the jungle and how he dispatched them in the nick of time 'with a left and right.'

"To judge from a photograph which we have of the two caged animals they look like a couple of growing cubs, gazing at the cam-era with the curiosity of young in-

"Depths of Sensationalism."

"The poor creatures were probably all the better off for having been put out of their misery quickly instead of being hounded and hunted down, all unknowing that they were expected to be ferocious, and probably turning around to come and make friends with their pursuers.

come and make friends with their pursuers.

"To hunt two young cubs, born and brought up in captivity, accustomed to human beings, to whom they looked to supply them with their daily ration of meat, unaccustomed to wild life, and certainly not regarding the human race as their enemy, in short, two overgrown kittens to whom life meant no more than play and regularly supplied food, shows the depths to which humans with the desire of sensationalism will sink.

"And what adds to the pitifulness of it all, is that the disappointed onlookers wanted Mr. Wright to stage another hunt of the same nature."

Enthusiastic applause met his words, but a moment later the hisses of another section almost drowned the handclapping. Similar sentiments by the same manufacturer drew hisses later in the same scene.

Days. The Orchid Show at Shaw's Garden, augmented and completely re-arranged, was visited by 5614 per-sons yesterday, making a total of 20,547 since the show opened a week ago with a first-day attendance of 5318.

An exhibit of fine orchids growing on the original tree-chunks on which they were brought from Pan-ama, and dozens of Flores de Mayo, the fragrant variety of the Cattleya, were added to the 1000 blossoms in the display, which will continue to the middle of February.

Habits of the "orchid crowd," Supt. Pring. explained, made it necessary to change the show so as to leave the greatest possible space for visitors who, more than at any other of the annual displays, seem intent on an intimate view of each of the many contrasting types. The big bank of Cattleyas in two varieties has been moved to the far end of the Floral Display House and the other exhibits have been broken up into smaller units to enable the greatest number to view them at leisure.

Pasquale Fariello, night watchman, told detectives four men burst into the Savoia Manufacturing Co., Inc., last night, threatening: "If you want to live, be quiet." They wrapped an overcost around his head, drove with him miles away and put him out on the street. When he got to a police station he was told flames had practically ruined the inside of the factory. No motive for the act was apparent.

New York Play Shows Development of a Radical and Condemnation to Death.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—an adulance in evening clothes stood in its sents last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new last last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new last last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new last last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new last last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new last last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new last last night craft towed back to port.

Alfred Letourneau, 19 years old, and his brother, William, 17, left Marblehead in a 23-foot power dory. After an all-night search, the patrol boat CG 994, of Base 7, Gloucester, in command of Chief Boatswain Fitzgerald, found them at 7 a. m., 10 miles southeast of Marblehead Light.

sees in evening clothes stood in its seests last night crying out for the author of "We, the People," a new play by Elmer Rice which portrayed with sympathy the development of a young radical and his condemnation to death. The dialog of the players twice drew applause which was replied to with a storm of hisses, and for about half a minute the action of the play was halted until the commotion had subsided. The prolonged applause and the cries of "author" brought Rice before the footlights for a bow after the cast had taken a dozen curtain calls, but Rice refused to respond to cries for a speech.

The play presents with distinct sympathy the gradual destruction of a typical American family undereconomic pressure, and in its sweeping criticism of the American scene presents biting pictures of financiers, Senators, judges and a university professor who seeks the presidency on a platform of "enlightened liberalism."

The dialog stirred the audience to vigorous expression in a scene in which a group of financiers and we'd like to lalk with you about it ...

> All races of people since the beginning of time, so far as we have been able to read, have had some kind of a pipe and have smoked something -whether they called it tobacco or what-not.

A ND since smoking a pipe is so different A from smoking a cigar or a cigarette, we made a most painstaking, scientific study in an effort to make, if we could, a tobacco which was suited to pipes.

We found out, first, that there was a kind of tobacco that grew in the Blue Grass section of Kentucky called "White Burley", and that there was a certain kind of this tobacco which was between the tobacco used for cigarettes and the tobacco used for chewing tobacco. It is Having got the right tobacco, we then began to study the method of making it.

We found out that Mr. J. N. Wellman, way back many years ago, in a small factory, made a pipe tobacco which was very popular. But he was not in a position to advertise it, and after he passed away there was nothing more heard about it.

We acquired this Wellman Method of making pipe tobacco—and that is what we use in making GRANGER ROUGH CUT.

The next thing was to cut the tobacco. We knew that fine tobacco burnt hot because it burnt so fast. It kept your pipe hot. You could hardly hold your pipe in your hand, it got so hot at times.

Then we remembered that some folks back yonder used to "whittle" their tobacco. So we made GRANGER just like "whittle" tobacco - "Rough Cut." It smokes cooler and lasts a lot longer. And also, you'll find it never gums the pipe.

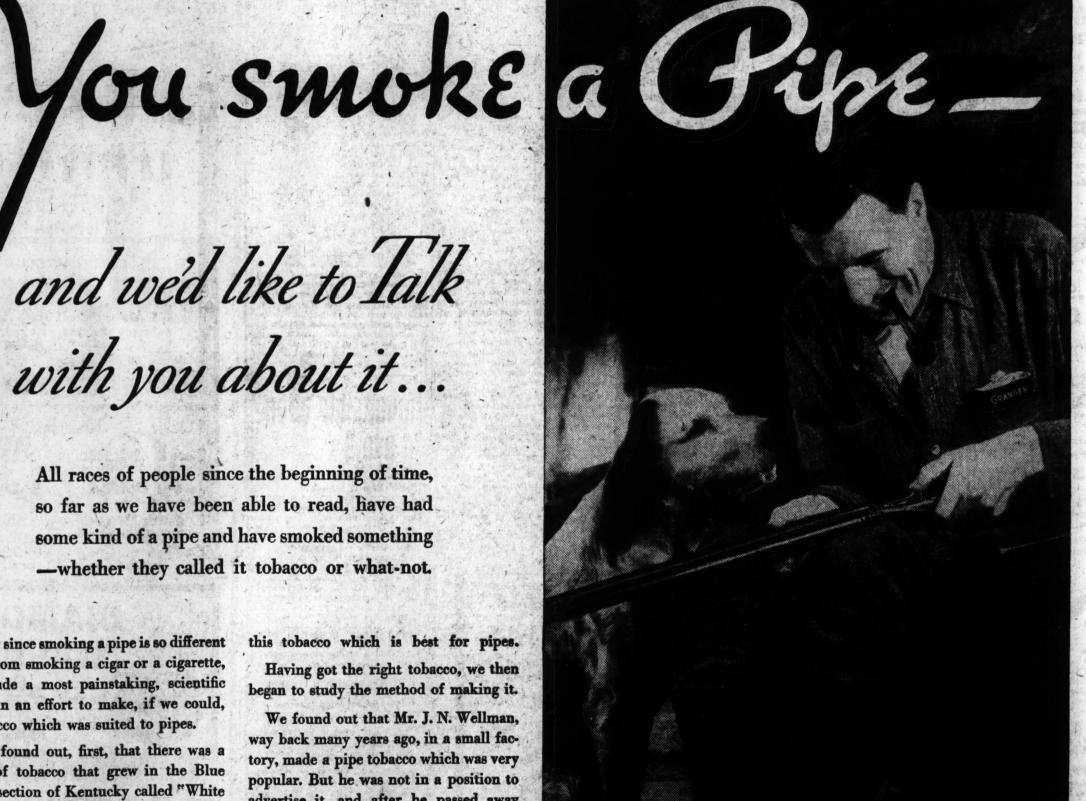

So far, so good. Now we wanted to sell this tobacco for 10c. Good tobacco-right process - cut right. It was a question of how to do it for the price.

So we put GRANGER in a sensible soft foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke a package. We gave smokers this good GRANGER tobacco in a common-sense pouch for 10c.

GRANGER has not been on sale very long, but it has grown to be a popular smoke. And there is this much about itwe have yet to know of a man who started to smoke it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

it all right. "The Bible isn't fit for civilized people to read, and they don't read it. They just buy it to give away. Oh, there is good reading in some of the old prophets, and I like Ecclesiastes. Its writer was a mechanist, who didn't believe anything he ouldn't see.

"The Bible tells us that God scat tered quails and manna over Asia Minor to keep the old Jews alive. God led the children of Israel through the wilderness by appear-ing to them as a pillar of cloud and of fire, but it took them 40 years, and I've been over the same ground in six hours, with the help of mod-

"If it makes you happy, stick to it, don't think, just close your eyes and pray. But it's all so silly that it makes me feel silly to stand here and talk about it. Where is heaven, up or down, and if up, how do you go? If you're going very far above the earth, you ought to take an overcoat, or you'll get so cold you'll be sorry you died. 'Resurrection of the body'—if a missionary is eaten by cannibals, who's going to be

"If the earth had stayed religious, we would still be in slime, and would be getting cured by magic, or Christian Science or something

"Isn't praying funny? Nobody expects prayer to be answered. Tyn-dall proposed to build a hospital, one-half for the doctors and one-half for prayer treatment—I wish they had tried it, for people might come out just about as well without ers who have prayed that their sons might be kept from death in war, and the slaughter of the sons just the same; the mother praying for the life of her sick child, then, when it dies, praying for another child. Anybody who has the first principles of science knows that these teachings are just legends, degrading to the human mind."

Merely Wisecracks, Rabbi Says. Isserman: "Mr. Darrow has discussed magic, and called it religion. gery because it was once believed that barbers could cure people by applying leeches. He hasn't touched my fundamental thesis; he has merely made wisecracks. He is talking about the religion of two generations ago, and for that mat-ter, he is living in the scientific world of two generations ago.

"Horace Kallen, a non-religionist "Horace Kallen, a non-religionist, tells us that no one ever saw a point, or a line, yet they are the basis of geometry. Mathematics deals only in concepts, not in visible realities, but we build bridges by it. We cannot see God, but we can build life by Him.

"Religious people have not reached the ideals of religion, but every hospital we have was estab-lished through the aid of religious organizations. Heaven and hell are not in my religion, but I say it is hell to walk through life believing that man is only slime, and heaven to believe in the godlike dignity and infinite capacities of man.

"It is a tribute to religion that the religious leaders of Israel who sought to foster belief in God, put in their sacred writings the book of Ecclesiastes, a book of doubt. But Isaiah came, too, and taught men that it was death to accept the defeatism and pessimism of "Religion cannot fully prove it-self. The problem of theism is difficult; the problem of atheism is absurd. If the theist cannot explain evil, neither can the atheist explain good."

Darrow: This talk about people's sacred feelings is bunk. I'm happier than I would be if I tried to believe something I knew to be untrue. Think a little about this business of the soul and God, then give it up and you will quit worry-ing about it. He hasn't given any fundamental proof of religion. There is nothing to religion except prayer, and you can't find the re-

Our progress has come through the patient work of investigators who have used the scientific method, offering objections to everything they sought to prove, and overcoming those objections before they claimed a proof. Religion won't get you half a mile; science will take you around the earth."

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash, Jan. 23.—John
Bowe, 27 years old, itinerant former law clerk of Chicago, leaped out a ninth-story window of an apartment house here yesterday in an attempt to kill himself because, as he told police afterward, he "hadn't the will power to stop drinking."

He crashed through a heavy plank walk and buried himself two feet in soft earth underneath. Doctors at the emergency hospital could discover nothing but minor injuries. They said he would recover.

Isserman: "Prayer is not man making God in his image, it is man remaking himself in God's image. I pray not to change dod, but to change myself. The world's ideal of human brotherhood must come from religion. Gandhi, imbued by the spirit of religion, defies a mighty empire. Einstein says, not that there is no God, but that his God is the God of Spinoza. What was Europe before Chritianity? The home of barbarism. Humanity has advanced, slavery has been abolished, we have come to realize our international duties. Hear, oh Israel, the Lord our God is one. To believe in God is to recognize that there are no superior and no inferior races, that all are equal before Him."

Immortality so anxious to avoid dying? Put a cancer on one of them, and he'ill spend all he has to stay on this sinful earth a little longer. Why not save his money and go to heaven?

"What a wonderful thing religion has been for the world, they tell us. Where? Science has fought for 1000 years to make the world fit for human beings. When science developed anesthesia, as a means of mercy to women in childbirth, religious people objected, saying women should bear their suffering because Eve ate the apple. While dividend and interest payments did begin to fall off in 1932, wages declined still more. While wages in manufacturing for the first nine months, from January to September, 1932, averaged less than 43 per cent of their totals in 1926 and 1929, the dividend and interest payments were at a rate only 5 per cent below those of 1929 and 64 per cent above those of 1926. . . .

In 1931, there was a drop in these payments, but they were still about 8 per cent higher than in 1926. In 1932, finally, while these payments will probably be less than in 1929, they will still be well above the Union, complying of course with state laws in the country, as only a very few small concerns confine their business to one state. HOSPITALS IN THE DEPRESSION.

It is a revealing report which the American Medical Association makes on the sorry plight of hospitals in the grip of the depression. During 1931, we learn, at least 110 institutions for the care of the ill and the infirm were forced to discharge their patients and o refuse to take any more. Statistics compiled by the association show that hospital earnings throughout the country have decreased upwards of 20 per cent, to say nothing of the falling off in income from indowments. At the same time, the number of patients unable to pay for services continues to inrease. The association estimates that, taking the country as a whole, one patient in three is in this lass. So accepted a part of American existence are the hospitals that their function has come to be regarded more or less a matter of routine. In the light of the information furnished by the American Medical Association, the uphill work of the men and

We have, at least in large cities, local monopolies added to the great capitalist monopolies, and the total burden is particularly heavy in a time of depression like the present. An important reason for the failure of our economic system to get into balance again is the important role played by monopoly—steel prices almost at the level of four years ago, with production at 20 parcent, railroad, telephone, gas and electricates that show almost no adjustment to the new price level.

Thus we see that for most of our pro-

We have no Federal fiscal monopolies, but in such monopolies as the steel corporation, and doubtless other capitalist monopolies, we have something similar to the privileged monopolies of late medieval times—recognized, if not definitely approved by the

Monopolies, Ancient and Modern

Mankind has been plagued by monopolistic control from day of Pharaohs to modern era; in Roman Empire and Middle Ages, privilege ruled industry; local monopolies today are often worse than larger groups, more vulnerable because of size; exactions now are less directly felt than in ancient times, explaining public apathy.

From a Paper by Prof. John Ise, University of Kansas, Read Before the American Economics Association Convention at Cincinnati.

M ONOPOLY has plagued mankind for some thousands of years. It has existed in various forms at different times, and in many forms at almost all times; and in varying degrees has oppressed the people of every age. In the ancient world, monopoly dominated the economic life to an ex traordinary degree-state monopolies, and occasional privileged monopolies, usually un-der complete domination by the state.

The Pharaohs of ancient Egypt, and the Thinite monarchy as well, owned practically all of the land and mines, exploited the mines and carried on at least some of the trade, as state monopolles. The Phoenicians, too, are said to have carried on their trade through royal and privileged companies, somewhat as the English and French did in the late medicval period. In Ptolemaic Egypt, the King dominated everything, much as the Pharaohs had done. He owned the soil and the minerals, bought corn from the farmers at his own price, stored it in state granaries, and shipped it to Alexandria on barges owned by the King or under strict state supervision. Ordinary revenues came partly from monopolies.

In early Greek history, we find a very different situation. Rugged individualists as they were, the Athenians enjoyed a far more democratic economic life than the other earlier states, and they doubtless suffered far less from state or other monopoly. Large-scale establishments with slaves were The market places in early Athens were

The market places in early attents were generally simple affairs, and monopoly was probably difficult to secure. The corn trade, extremely important to a people dependent on imports, was regulated very closely. There were special magistrates in the con-trol of the market. Very severe laws were laid down. Death was the common penalty for attempts to monopolize the market.

In the early history of Rome, there was a fairly democratic sconomic organization, in spite of the great privileged companies en-gaged in mining, and trade was reasonably free. In the late Republic, there was a growing domination of economic life by the growing domination of economic life by the state. Tenney Frank states that at the end of the Republic, "The forces that worked in favor of large-scale and monopolistic pro-duction differed but little from those of simduction differed but little from those of simliar tendency today."

Various forms of monopoly became particularly oppressive during the later Empire.
Craft gilds grew up everywhere, and some of them, as the lime burners and the baggage porters, had some monopoly power. Some of these gilds doubtless exploited the people to some extent. Perhaps the worst exploitation in the Roman world was at the hands of the negotiatores, or knights, and publicans, who held monopoly control of certain provinces, and exploited the people scandalously. The negotiatores were usually followed or accompanied by usurers, who enjoyed state support, and were in a position to exploit monopoly advantages. They fleeced princes and towns, and those in humble station, whom they often forced to sell their lands.
The record of the Eastern Roman Empire, under Justinian, was much like that of Western Rome. The monopolies that the

It is the thesis of this paper that mor is a very old disease, that it has flourished in different forms almost everywhere and at all times. the Bible was an extremely grievous thing, compared to some of Patten's manipulations. The Roman and medieval monopolies on salt and various kinds of cloth must have been felt far more than almost any conceivable raising of prices would be felt now.
The monopolies that exploited the people a generation or two ago took monty that had a high marginal utility. We are so rich—or perhaps I should say, we have been so rich, and soon will be so again—that we can afford to pay monopoly prices without great suffering. This is the reason for apathy of the people toward monopolies.
There is some reason to believe that is may be easier to control the great capitalistic combinations than to secure relief from local monopoly conditions in large cities.
These larger concerns, by their very sing, are somewhat in the open, and may asily be made more so. When they attain a corsiderable element of monopoly power, they will lose much of the vitality that competition is supposed to insura. The larger they become, and the greater their monopoly tion is supposed to insure. The larger that become, and the greater their monopoly power, the more easily this may be done, and the less will be the loss in efficiency.

2000 years ago, Dr. Herzfeld told of an ensemble depicting palace guards, footmen, horsemen, chariots and charioteers. Each chariots wheel was held in place by a nail through the end of the axle. compared to some of Patten's manipulations. The Roman and mediaval monopolies on salt and various kinds of cloth must have been felt far more than almost any conceivable raising of prices would be felt now. The monopolies that exploited the people a generation or two ago took money that had a high marginal utility. We are so rich, and soon will be so again—that we can afford to pay monopoly prices without great suffering. This is the reason for apathy of the people toward monopolies. There is some reason to believe that it may be easier to control the great capitalistic combinations than to secure relief from local monopoly conditions in large cities. These larger concerns, by their very sixe, are somewhat in the open, and may easily be made more so. When they attain a considerable element of monopoly power, they will lose much of the vitality that competition is supposed to insure. The larger they become, and the greater their monopoly power, the more easily this may be done, and the less will be the loss in efficiency. ONE QUALITY MISSING. From the Louisville (Ky.) Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home Saves $2. Se Easy! No Cooking!

You'll never know how quickly a severe cough following a cold can be conquered until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle pour 2½ ounces of Pinex, then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages and soothes and helps heal the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe winter coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its quick effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Courageous French Soldier

History contains many lessons of physical and spiritual courage.
None appeals so much to me as that of De la Tour d'Auvergne, a poilu of the French and English feudal wars in ancient times.
D'Auvergne was placed as a night watch at an outpost with orders to shout the alarm if the enemy attempted a surprise attack during the night. The alarm would naturally prepare the camp and prevent a wholesale slaughter of the army. Alone in the dark night, D'Auvergne was suddenly surrounded by three English soldiers. The Anderson and Stix clubs, St Louis survivors in the national challenge cup competition, were drawn to play out-of-town elevens at Sportsman's Park in the second round of the United States title series, according to the results an-nounced this afternoon by Winton E. As an added incentive for the establishments and clubs in the United States title hunt, Jack Parry, Chicago commissioner, who attended yesterday's game at Sportsman's Park, announced that one of the features arranged for the world's fair at Chicago this spring was a soccer match between the United States and Canadian cham-

Stix Eliminate Kavanaughs.
The Stix joined the Andersons in the second round yesterday with a 4 goals to 1 victory over Phil Kavanaugh's Coca-Colas. The largest crowd of the season, annous 3100 persons, attended.

Sweeping the Kavanaughs off their feet in the first 15 minutes of play, the Stix scored three goals to clinch the verdict. The Kavanaughs continued to fight, but they could not overcome the Stix lead.

There was a great deal of hard charging in the contest and on sevcharging in the contest and on several occasions it appeared as though the athletes would get together in fistic combat. Play started at a fast clip and after a minute of play, McNab's corner was cleared. The Kavanaughs rushed down field and harrowly missed a goal when Le-Barge fumbled a shot, when charged by Selby, Gregg rushing over to clear. Only three minutes had been played, when the Stix scored. Halfback McPherson got the sphere, carried it down the right and crossed to Flavin at center. Flavin was covered and handed the sphere to Lehman, who counted. Play started at a fast clip and Thereafter the Stix forced three corners, but all were cleared. However, at the nine-minute mark, McNab broke into the scoring column, converting a pass from Nilsen. Five minutes later, McNab sent a drop shot out of Albrecht's reach after taking a pass from Flavin. Reidy converted a cross from Granon for what proved the only Kavanaugh goal after 25 minutes of play. Though both goalles were tested severely at times, there was no further scoring in the first half. The second half was only 30 seconds old, when Flavin beat the Kavanaugh defense with a fine shot after taking a pass from Nilsen. More and better foreign players have been imported and with each wave of Eastern progression the American style faded from the picture. It has been conclusively proved that a hard rushing game, with speed and more speed as its main asset, and not a little physical force to help out, will NOT stand up against a well co-ordinated British style attack.

Falls first baseman, should become one of the best first sackers in baseball. Lin Storti, another Wichita Falls product, soon will be a star big league infielder. The Browns' trade with Washington that netted Carl Reynolds and Sam West should be beneficial to St. Louis. However, the Browns parted with a great outfielder when they let Schulte go. "Lloyd Brown, the Beeville, Tex., pitcher, who was acquired from Washington in a trade, is a great hurler and should go well for the Browns." Six Foreign Stars Join Stix.

TODAY finds us abandoning the theory of American style football and adopting the British combinations with much better results. Under the leadership of T HAT huge growth known as Organized Baseball is in some danger of dying at the roots. The failure of the major leagues to appropriate the $50,000 to promote a junior national championship tournament, the decay of the lower classification minor leagues, and the deletion of baseball from college and school schedules attack directly the major league source of supply. Aleck McNab, a tutor who has given the East more than one champion, the Stix team of St.

ness of the dollar against foreign currencies was a feature of the financial day. Strength of such monies as French francs, Swiss francs, Dutch guilders and the belga apparently reflected talk of inflation at Washington, though it was recalled that recent selling of the dollar, inspired by similar gossip, had been short-lived. Sterling cables improved a cent, but held only half their rise.

Wheat was firm, closing 1/20 % Chigher, on reports of a reduced visible supply. Corn's gains were smaller, while cotton, dull all day, finished with net advances of 2 to 4 points.

Week-end steel trade report indicated some slight set-up in operations. "Steel" placed its production estimated at 18 per cent, a gain of 1 point. This betterment, however, was largely offset by a weakening to the present reserve in the case of th

"a cruel proposal."

"I believe it is practically impossible to balance the national budget, and keep it balanced, until the taxpayers' budget is considered," declared the Republican Senator from Idaho. Continuing on his subject,

"Is there any way to bring about the latter until you devise a plan for increasing the prices of com-modities? Is there any way to do that except through deflation, through adjustment of the money problem?"

Puts Currency Problem First. "The question of balancing the budget is again being urged," he added. "I venture the opinion that the budget will not, and cannot, be balanced except on paper, and that briefly, either now or under the in-coming administration, until we settle the currency question. It cannot be done any more than you can build a house upon a receding

President Hoover sent a specia message to Congress last Tuesday, recommending a general sales tax on all commodities except food and cheap clothing. He said this was the best available means of balancing the budget ing the budget.

"With commodity prices near the bottom and still slowly falling, with the purchasing power of the masses near the minimum and still dimin ishing, with taxes increasing in amount but diminishing in returns, with the value of the dollar depreciating and mortgages and taxes responding accordingly, there is no such thing as balancing the budget except on paper and temporarily, Borah replied.

Blow Against Consumption.
"The proposal has been made to cut Government expenses $500,000,-000. That is a wise proposal. It is then proposed to raise $500,000,000 by increase of taxes, the sales tax. That is a cruel proposal, in the light of diminishing profits, falling prices and decrease of purchasing power. At a time when underconsumption is a malady which menaces our whole social structure, there can be no justification for aggravating the malady.

"If we cannot stabilize prices, to lay on a sales tax which strikes at those least able to pay is to accentuate the fall in prices and discourage and decrease purchasing power. We are traveling in a vicious circle toward economic collapse.

"In 1929 the national income was about $85,200,000,000; in 1932, about $37,500,000,000. Our national intaxes of the people, city, state and national, together with the inter-est falling due on private indebtedness. We have already reached the point when, measured against interest and taxes, the income of the nation is about zero.

"To put a tax on the poorer peo-ple until we have done something to raise and stabilize the prices of commodities is not wise from an economic standpoint, and socially it is an iniquity.

Price System Out of Balance.

"At the present time we are on the gold standard in this country. The rest of the world, except France, which, owing to certain reasons not necessary to discuss here, does not affect greatly our situation, is on a managed currency basis. While our dollar climbs in value, their currency is accommo-dated to their economic situation. The result is that we are not only losing our foreign markets, but we are losing our domestic markets.

"Important lines of business are actually being closed because they cannot compete in the markets with the products coming in and deluging our home markets from company.

ing our home markets from countries on a cheaper currency basis.

"The fish business on the Pacific coast is being literally ruined. The countries off the gold standard are literally taking over the fish industry.

"The farmer also is feeling th effect of the competition in the same way. Other important lines of industry feel the effect of it. To

ILLUSION:

In this startling trick, the magician seemingly pushes a huge threaded needle through the body of an assistant, pulling the needle out the other side, followed by the thread.

EXPLANATION:

Under the clothes of the victim is a pipe, extending around one side of his body from front to back. The needle, which is flexible, is inserted in the front end of the pipe, is carried around the body and emerges from the pipe in back. This operation is performed so quickly that the audience does not notice that the needle and thread are momentarily shortened dur-

We like tricks...but we prefer to keep them out of business.

Here's one that's interesting ... The illusion that by some obscure magic certain cigarettes are "COOLER" than others.

THE EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes burn slowly. They're cool. Parched, dry cigarettes burn fast. They're hot.

Camels are carefully wrapped in moistureproof cellophane...in the famous, air-tight Humidor Pack. Camels are cool because they're fresh and full of matural moisture.

A cigarette blended from choice non-irritating tobaccos also gives a cooler effect than one that is harsh and acrid. The finer the tobacco the less irritating it is, and therefore the "cooler."

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why Camels are cool and mild, nonirritating-full of flavor. This is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made. It's the tobacco that counts.

Keep the famous welded Humidor Pack on your Camels. It assures you a fresh, cool smoke.

Life Is a Large Room

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr: A FTER years of sowing my so-called "wild oats," I have found the girl I want to ask to become my wife. I know I love her and she loves me, but our difficulty is

"difference in religion."

Now, Mrs. Carr, won't you please give us your unbiased opinion on this subject. Don't you think that we could marry and each go his separate way insofar as religion is concerned? I am positive and I know that we could without dissention in our home, as both of us are congenial and have no grudge whatsoever against the religious be-

Frankly, it's our parents. Both are extremely strict in their own belief and make life miserable for both of us with their continual nagging. We both love and respect our parents' wishes and would sincerely hate to do anything that would hurt them, but it seems so terribly unfair to us that because of this difference we should part; two people thoroughly matured who want to establish a home and who love and respect each other.

Any help you can give us towards the final solving of our problem will be appreciated, I assure you. ROMEO AND JULIET. I can give you my opinion only from the standpoint of a layman. I know that a difference in religion need not make an unhappy and an inharmonious marriage. But this can be done only when the persons concerned are not so hide-bound that they will give no one else the privilege of having convictions and an opinion. This you will have to realize before, not after, you are married. It must not be a bone of contention between you and you will both have to see that it is not made so. As to the relatives or your parents—none of them are do-ing the marrying. With every ourtesy tell them you feel you have the right to decide for yourselves, just as they did, and, while you hope they will not be unhappy about it, the fact that you are going to marry must be accepted. In the matter of the marriage ceremony, there are certain rules that must be adhered to in some churches. But this can be done without changing the denomination.

Why smoke just because some of your schoolmates do it? You know the greatest smokers will admithat it is a bad habit at best, although they may not see anything wicked about it. You are certainly better off without it, especially at your age. Yes, some day I shall prove what a sense of humor, will-power and sublime faith will do to carry one through depressions and every human experience. With 5-4-4-0 distribution, I favor the bidding of the suit or suits un-der the conditions and in the manner recently explained for weak hands. When the hand is strong, do not be too enthusiastic about your void suit, even when you have found a suit which the opening bid-der supports. There is not only danger but likelihood that there is an absolute duplication because your partner holds ace or ace-king of your void suit.
Slams need aces, and they need the right aces when one partner has a void. With three well-gar-nished suits but no ace, I would not insist on a suit contract if my five-card suit were a minor. In fact,

Sp. — Di. K10xxx Hts. K10xx Cl. QJxx would elicit a response of two diamonds from me; but unless my partner now bid hearts, I would take or steer the declaration to three no trumps. Holding

I would raise to two no trumps without bidding the diamonds. My partner must have spades under control, may even have five of them to the ace-king, and in that event the opponents may well hold four each, and that is likely to be fails in marital devotion by shaving and usually select husbands four each, and that is likely to be fails in marital devotion by shaving and wives on the basis of much higher the natural opening lead against the utterly unromantic that she suffers are pretty well educated today than constantly from cold feet. In our consideration of very weak hands, I said that the best game hope is in no trumps when the opener disregards the weakness rebid and goes three well-above-minimum hands we are now dealing with, game is equally certain in either declaration, and in rubber play you should tend to take the declaration to four in the suit if ever your partner supports the suit, as the play may be secure and effortless.

Second. In tournaments, the suit fit generally makes me still more eager to play for 35 points per trick instead of 30, providing that the bidding has not indicated that, apart from any danger in no trumps, it may be easier to make one more trick in the suit than in no trumps. A singleton does not affect this angle nearly so much as a void suit. It is then a question no trumps. A singleton does not affect this angle nearly so much as a void suit. It is then a question of ruffing out or cross-ruffing, not of obtaining discards, as nothing less than three discards will eliminate the losers from a suit of four cards in which you have only one controlling high card. For the time being, I will merely mention the principle involved. Later we will have some tournament hands illustrating these and other points of advanced bidding and play.

Tomorrow: Responding to no trumps with two five-card suits.

Fashion has taken a fancy to unbuttoned hemiines which permit a petiticoat to show. The scheme is to have buttons and button holes extending from neckline to hem, but to carelessly forget to use all of them. Thus, nonchalantly you go about pretending not to know that there's a bit of good silk peeping out from under your dress. One that will be generally liked has its neckline edged with pleated taffeta. The pointed front which gives the hat a boxy silhouette is worth attention. An extra piece of crepe is stitched up the middle of the back to suggest more height, and the pompon posed on top of the crown also does its duty along this same line. A light colored hat, such as beige, uses a brown pompon. The veil carries out the dark decorations.

"Certainly, Miss-If you'll come with me."

She followed him past the old-fashioned grandfather clock to a door on the right, which he opened quickly. "You'll be comfortable here," he said, as he switched on the light. "What name shall I tell the doctor?"

So this was the living room of Dr. Mitchell's home A lovely room, Judith decided, glancing around. Although she didn't know it then, it still contained the things Craig's mother had put into it 40 years before. The prim sofa with its curving, hand-carved back, tiny sprigs of roses on the old tapestry, the tilt-top table, with its pie crust edge, against the wall, the straight chairs with their harp-like rests the rosewood square piano against one of the walls, its wood lustrous under the glow of the little candle lamp near its music rack.

THE tall windows were draped quaintly with English print cur-tains which swept the dark wood-pegged floor. There were few pictures on the walls-miniatures over a small cherry cabinet, and over the fireplace an oil portrait ich held a considerable likeness to Craig Mitchell.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

JUDITH AVERY went to the home of DR. CRAIG MITCHELL, in whose office she works, to borrow a thousand dollars from him. She wants the money for TOBY LOCKE, young assistant teller in the Guarantee National Ban't. Judith still loves Toby as much as she did before he married her chum. She sympathizes with the weakness which made bim take some of the bank's money for speculation to cover his young wife's extrawagant debts.

He came to Judith instead of his wife, to say he was clearing out of town before the bank discovered the shortage of funds. Judith was unable to bear the thought of his being cent or prison. She persuaded him to wait until the next morning and promised to find the money to clear up the loss, restore his self-respect, and enable him to start ever again. She knows of no one but Doctor Mitchell who might lend her a thousand dollars. She hates to ask him, but ahe must do it for Toby's sake. It is his only chance.

The Engaged Couple

RECEIVED a letter asking me if I disapprove of an engraved announcement of an engagement under all circumstances. (1)
"Would you tabu a simple card with the two last name initials of the girl and boy engraved at the top and in the center of the card, their names in full? This would be very much

be very much easier for us to send out as my flance and I are fiance and I are both in college.

(2) Now please don't say what my parents did, Mrs. Post, that we should wait until we are graduated in June and until friend fiance has a job. We thought of waiting, too, but we see each other so seldom now that when we do we want to be able to waive aside the usual pro-

that when we do we want to be able to waive aside the usual proprieties which change for any couple when they become engaged."

Answer: (1) If you care about the conventions of good form, then the announcements you suggest are tabu. But if you are following local custom or if you are all you cal custom, or if you don't care whether the smart world approves more than displayed in will be genor disapproves, then announce it in whatever way you choose. Proper-ly, you should either tell your friends, or else write very short There are same prenotes. The nearest to convention (but not conventional at that) would be to enclose both of your cards in an envelope. This would have no effect of effort and would, therefore, be better than to have acies (if something—that is quite wrong—especially prepared. (2) There is icker and no reason why you should not anarade. With nounce your engagement as soon as you please. This has no rule save that of personal preference.

The Second Ring.

We, as individuals and as a world, are not as bad as we might be. We are not absolutely selfish. But that is about as much as can be said, for we skate pretty close to ignoring our brother and sister under the Fatherhood of God in many ways. We have seen that absolute selfishness is that of the person who preserves himself without any regard whatever to the interests of others. That is the first ring of the ancients. We may not be that way, all the time, but some of us lapse occasionally; let us try to avoid doing it even for a moment. The next ring, or horizon, that surrounds man is that state of mind which recognizes the family; our social order of father, mother and child and their many relationships. More tomorrow.

N arthritis we have what is probably the most important of the so-called chronic diseases. It is responsible for few deaths, but it causes much suffering and much

Many hypotheses have been advanced to explain arthritis. Some maintain that infection plays an important role in effecting the crippling of the joints. Others argue the disease is due to a neurogenic or nerve factor.

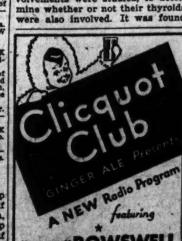

Still others contend that arthritis may be due to disturbances in the glands of internal secretion.

It does not follow, because there that one must be right and the others wrong. Arthritis has many forms and may have many causes.

The glandular hypothesis has much to support it. Particularly in women it has been frequently observed that menopause, i. e., change of life, and disturbances in the a Deputy Sheriff when he jumped from a freight car and fled, ignoring commands to halt.

HE HAD ESCAPED FROM U. S. MARSHAL

Anderson escaped from United States Marshal Hukriede of St. Louis yesterday by diving through the window of a speeding train as it neared New Orleans, about 90 miles southeast of here. He was being returned to New Orleans from St. Louis to be tried for the killing of a prohibition informer. A train dispatcher at Lutcher, half way between New Orleans and Baton Rouge, early today gave authorities the information which put them on the trail of the fugitive. He reported he had seen a trespasser on the freight train as it passed his station.

Deputy Sheriff Ed Whitney, two Baton Rouge city detectives and a special agent of the Yazoo a Mississippi Valley Railroad halted the freight train behind the Louisina State University stadium, about three miles south of town, where open fields would make a fugitive an easy target.

About 20 slugs struck Anderson in the back and under the right arm. He died on the spot.

Anderson's only apparent injuries as a result of his spectacular escape yesterday were cuts about the face. A bloodstained handkerchief was wrapped around his forehead. In his clothing were letters from his wife and son.

Marshal Hukriede identified Anderson's body at the inquest this morning. Three Negroes who co-cupied the freight car with Anderson testified he boarded it near St. Rose, not far from where he escaped. He did not talk to them, the Negroes said, during the ride.

Train Making 50 Miles an Hour. Anderson's desperate break for freedom yesterday was made as the Illinois Central train in which he was being taken to New Orieans was running at 50 miles an hour through the swamp land 10 miles north of that city.

Leg irons had been kept on him after he left St. Louis and a constant watch over him was maintained by Hukriede, his son Herbert, and William Lehye, whom the Marshal had employed as guards. As the train neared New Orieans the leg irons were removed, and handcuffs substituted.

As the train neared New Orleans the leg irons were removed, and handcuffs substituted.

Anderson then complained of feeling cold, and the handcuffs were removed to enable him to don an evercoat. Immediately after putting it on, Anderson dived over a card table and through the double glass window of the Pullman car.

The train was not stopped until it reached New Orleans, and when Hukriede and other officers hastened back to the scene of the escape in automobiles they expected to find.
